

As President and spokesperson of the Lardish House of Deputies, I am reporting on the voting results for the proposed bill regarding amendments to the Political Constitution of the United States of the First Lardish Republic (PCOTUSFLR). This bill includes the removal of "Lardish" as a national language and changing the country's name from "the United States of the First Lardish Republic" to "the Lardish Republic" to reflect a more accurate historical narrative.

Analysis of the Proposal

1. Removal of Lardish as a National Language: This part of the bill was met with mixed reactions:
 - Coalition of the Lardish National Party (LNP) and Lardish Fritos National Party (LFNP): Being conservative, they generally opposed removing the national language, seeing it as an erosion of cultural heritage. However, some moderate members found merit in updating outdated aspects of governance.
 - Coalition of the Colish National Party (CNP) and Lardish People's Party (LPP): Supported the proposal, aligning with their progressive stance on modernization and inclusivity.
 - Apple Lardish Party (ALP): Split decision, as they valued both historical preservation and practical changes.
2. Renaming the Country: This part of the bill found broader support:
 - LNP and LFNP: Some supported this change for the sake of national unity, but the majority were concerned about altering the historical identity of the country.
 - CNP and LPP: Favored this change to reflect the nation's growth and current values.
 - ALP: Largely supported, considering it a balanced way to signify progress.

Voting Results Per Coalition/Party

- Coalition of the Lardish National Party and Lardish Fritos National Party (106 seats):
 - Votes in favor: 40
 - Votes against: 66
- Coalition of the Colish National Party and Lardish People's Party (82 seats):
 - Votes in favor: 72
 - Votes against: 10
- Apple Lardish Party (16 seats):
 - Votes in favor: 10
 - Votes against: 6

Overall Results

- Total votes in favor: 122
- Total votes against: 82

The bill required at least 120 votes for approval. With a total of 122 votes in favor, the proposal has successfully passed in the House of Deputies.

This reflects coalition-driven support primarily from the left-wing and center-wing parties, underscoring a shift towards modernizing the Lardish Republic's constitutional and cultural frameworks.